Importance of this Election.

The coming election is the most important one that has been held in Ohio for many years. Beside the choice of an U. S. Senator, the State is to be re-divided into Congressional and Legislative districts, the entire treasury system of the State is to be retained or abandoned, and the interest laws are to be re-modeled so that they will have some effectiveness, or are to remain a dead letter on the statute book. At this time, especially, it is the imperative duty of every Democrat to exert himself to the utmost to secure the triumph of the party. It is our privilege as a Republican people, to say who shall be our rulers and base and forfeit of the rights, which he as a freeman enjoys—forgetful of the rights, to secure which, blood and treasure were expended, and untold hardships endured—is the man who without an effort suffers the party whose principles he has espoused to be defeated in the contest. It has always been our opinion that the citizen who will voluntarily stay away from the polls on the day of election, is not worthy of the right of suffrage, and if that is true in ordinary cases, how censurable is the man who will stand by and see his party go by the board in the present crisis.

That the Democracy have a majority in this country, there is not a shadow of doubt, and if every man will do his duty, we will rout the Republicans horse, foot, and dragon. This year we have more than our customary strength. Certain unpopular doctrines which the Opposition have adopted into their political creed, and made issues before the people, give us an immense advantage. Unlawful practices, which ten or twelve years ago would brand with infamy and disgrace in this community, any man who would engage in them, are insisted upon with a pertinacity absolutely astonishing. Our foreign citizens are reviled and denounced, and then called upon to vote for their persecutors. The Independent Treasury Law, under which not a dollar of the people's money has been lost, is sought to be repealed, and the old system, under which nearly a million was scattered to the four winds, is sought to be re-instituted by a set of swindling bankers, at the head of whom stands the Republican candidate for Governor. A man, who beside other dishonest acts, advised John G. Breslin to deposit $91,000 in two banks in Cincinnati, which he knew to be utterly worthless, and subsequently abstracted $16,000 from the State Treasury, in defiance of the Constitution and the statutes, whose political faith if put in practice will sooner or later lead to a dissolution of the Union, is proposed as U. S. Senator.

In this emergency, when so much is at stake, let there be a regular Democratic organization throughout the whole country, in every township and ward, let every member of the party awake to the importance of the election, and use his utmost endeavors to carry the whole ticket.

Down With the Statue.

The Abolitionists have adopted a new rallying cry, "Down with the Statue," in place of "Down with Webster's Statue." The Dissolutionists of Massachusetts are encouraged with indignation that the bronze image of the Great Expositor should remain in front of the State House, and Governor Banks is roundly denounced for recommending the State to accept the statue as a gift. We quote the following words from Garrison's manifesto on the subject published in the Liberator:

"The Statue Must be Removed—Let this be the popular decree to-morrow—let the declaration go forth from the lips of every upright man—let it be the voice of Massachusetts. A vote of the legislature can do what a vote has done. That vote can be secured by a prompt circulation of a respectful petition, to be signed by all who in their hearts respond to the cry—THE STATUE MUST BE REMOVED."

"The statue must be removed! And let all the people say, AMEN!"

Here is the petition, which receives signatures in the towns of Massachusetts:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

We, the undersigned citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, respectfully ask you to remove from the State House grounds—a no honor to the State and no respect to the people—the statue of Daniel Webster, whose last years were spent in defending the Fugitive Slave Bill, and whose last counsel to the Commonwealth was to conquer her prejudices against slave hunting, and to return men to bondage with alacrity."

The following splendid paragraph goes unheeded: A wag has invented a new slogan. He proposes to place a line of women fifty steps apart and commit the news to the first of them as a secret.

Centerville Discussion.

Mr. Morrow—Saturday evening was a lively evening in our little "ville."

Political parties having a meeting here—Major Parrott and D. P. New were the champions of the Black Republicans, and Adam Clay and M. Jordan of the Democrats. The Major came into town with "champing bits," and a spirit for light, accompanied by Adam, Miller's noted band, playing "Hail the Conquering Hero Comes!" The Major, after alighting from his buggy, and shaking the dust from his breeches, (and before quenching his thirst) made out a challenge to the Democratic speakers for a discussion, the Republicans standing by "a laughing" to think how the Democrats would take to water, and back out, as the big-little Major had laid down the gauntlet.

To be short, the challenge was accepted—Mr. Clay opened with forty-five minutes, and discussed the Sub-Treasury law, money question, Popular Sovereignty, &c., with sound arguments, which did not fail to have a good effect upon the audience. He propounded several questions to his competitor, the Major. The Major then followed Mr. Clay, in a speech of forty-five minutes, with considerable fluency, humor, and good sense, (his stock in trade) the latter article being intended for his Republican friends. He certainly failed in any one particular to answer satisfactorily the questions put to him. In a word, he failed to sustain his party, and himself as a debater.

Mr. I. M. Jordan followed the Major, in a speech of forty-five minutes, with as much power and eloquence that the Republicans had to gaze with astonishment, and caused the Major, "he himself" the inevitable, to get noisy, to squirm, to find his seat filled with nettles. Mr. Jordan's speech was one of the greatest efforts that was ever delivered in Centerville; it was a complete triumph over his challenging competitor. I will bet the oysters and "coffee for three," that the Major will never again challenge the Jordan for a discussion. Jordan made him wilt in his boots. Mr. New closed with forty-five minutes, trying to apply a balm to the sore and discomfited Major, but he did not get it at the right place, and being physically (as well as politically) afflicted with Bronchial affections failed to keep the Major square on his seat. If Mr. New should be so fortunate as to be elected, and could not defend the interests of this county better than his defense of the little Major, and his party, God help us! His effort was "some pumpkins" neither a fraze nor a failure—a short distance between the two.

This ended the discussion, one long to be remembered by the Democrats, and a flea in the ear of the Republicans. The Democrats can hardly contain themselves. Republicans look blue, faces elongated; so much so that I am certain no barber in the city would shave any of them for less than a "ten striker."

Yours,
CENTERVILLE.

At a late meeting of Republican Abolitionists, at Alliance, O., the following, among other resolutions, were adopted:

"Resolved, That it is not only the duty but the interest of the Republican party in this State to do all in its power to extend to colored citizens the elective franchise, and we do most earnestly call upon that party to make this subject a part of their State policy."

"Resolved, That should the Republicans give the colored people of Ohio the elective franchise, it would thereby secure to itself a permanent and unchanging majority in this State, which would insure it the ascendancy."

The Cincinnati Enquirer replies, that the Republican party is coming to that fast as they dare. The great obstacle just now is the repugnance felt by Southern Ohio to the proposed policy. As one of the "Oberlin saints" said, "the Republicans in the south part of the State are not quite strong enough for rich food, and must be fed with weak diet." They will be brought to negro equality gradually. "Wait for the wagon and you'll all take a ride," "black and white."

A NEW INVENTION—A steam boiler has recently been invented by Mr. Joseph Hanson, of Philadelphia, which, it is claimed, can not explode, or at least to such an extent as to be feared. It is commended to steamboatmen, and is thus described:

This boiler, though shaped like most others, is of a different construction. In its construction, it is composed of three hundred—These globes are about six inches in diameter, and have at each end tubes about two or three inches long, which connect one globe with the other.

AN HONEST MAN FOUND—A truly honest man was discovered at Newark, N. J., on Monday last week, in this wise: Mr. M. Daniels, a real estate broker of that city, arrived in town on Monday morning, from Morristown, with a package of money, amounting to four thousand dollars, which he intended to deposit in one of the city banks. Getting into an omnibus he placed the package on the seat, and when he got out left it behind him. There was another passenger in the omnibus, who discovered the package upon which was the following inscription: "$4000—to be left at the bank." He concluded that the package belonged to his fellow passenger, but he knew not the name or residence of the supposed owner. Being a stranger in the city, and seeing the direction, he took the package to a bank and handed the money to one of the officers, remarking that he found it in an omnibus, and that the owner, whoever he might be, would probably call for it. Mr. D., on discovering his loss, sought the omnibus, but the driver knew nothing of the missing money. Search was then made for the other passenger, who was found at the Central street Depot. He related the circumstances, and the money was recovered, much to the satisfaction of Mr. D. and delight of the driver.

POLYGAME IN UTAH—A correspondent at Salt Lake writes as follows about the Mormons: "I know of seven men who have the mother and daughter to wife, and one who has the mother and her four daughters to wife, and children by all of them. This man has ten wives. The reporter of the Tabernacle services, having five wives, has his half sister to wife. They have three children. One man in this district, an Elder, refused to seal to his son a spiritual wife, but had himself sealed to that same woman as his tenth spiritual wife, and lived with her as such for two months, and then divorced her and sealed her to the son in question and as such they now live."

The Eastern papers are full of accounts of equinoctial storms. The winds were high, and the rains heavy. No very serious accident occurred, though much damage was done in a small way.
